Welcoming New Members Year Round!

Two Receive Distinguished Awards

Beth Hall presented Harry Warner with the Edward E. Parker Award at the 2019 Annual December Holiday Potluck.

Harry served as the Society's webmaster from 2007 until 2018. When he took the position he knew very little about webpages. He researched and studied and self-taught the skills it took to create the page that served the Society well until Microsoft no longer supported the software and it became evident that ICGS needed to find a new website software program.

The numbers of volunteer hours spent establishing and maintaining that website was too often taken for granted, but very much appreciated by those who used the information posted on the site.

Alice Raatz has served as the Society's Historian from 1998 to present. In addition she served dually as a Trustee from 2000-2001 and as Recording Secretary from 2001-2005.

As Historian she is responsible for collecting and preserving all materials involving ICGS including minutes, photos, newsletters, membership rosters and newspaper articles relating to ICGS and/or its members. The materials are compiled into a 3-ring notebook with transparent acid-free plastic page protectors. At the end of each fiscal year, the completed notebooks are given to the ICGS Librarian to be made available to anyone visiting the reference room. The books are very well presented and very comprehensively provide a history of the Ingham County Genealogical Society and its members. Tammy Parsons, one of the three nominators, presented the award.

President's Message*BY Audrey Z. Martini*517-719-4737*Email: Martini@msu.edu

Thank-you to all who attended the November meeting and cast your ballots for the next term of officers. I especially appreciate those who had confidence in me for another term as President.

By the time you read this the 2019 holidays will be a memory and we will have embarked on a new decade with all kinds of New Year's resolutions and perhaps private bets on how long we will actually stick to those resolutions.

Because it is the beginning of a new term as president of this society, I am also looking at my personal goals relative to ICGS. This is the first time I've had a two-year term of office and I am really excited because it will give me more time to accomplish those goals.—all of which are consistent with the ICGS Mission:

. . . promote, encourage, make connections, and help provide information to those interested in the research and study of family history and work to preserve our mid-Michigan genealogical heritage. . .

While all five of our organizational goals are important, two stand out as particularly important at this point in our existence. The first is membership and the second is research resources. I think they go hand-in-hand. To quote from the sports and movie worlds "If you build it, they will come".

Society membership is our greatest asset, followed by the resources we have in the ICGS Reference Room/Library and the many volunteers over the years who have contributed to the growth and maintenance of that Library. But too few people even realize the wealth of information to be had within those four walls.

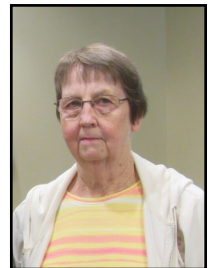

Times are changing and today's generation of researchers start their search not in a library, but on a computer keyboard. The ICGS challenge is to make as much information as possible accessible via our webpage. With the right mix of public and members only information on our page, I strongly believe we would increase both membership and income.

Several questions were raised at the November meeting about the cost of adding additional information to our website. I promised those present that I would do additional research and bring that budget item back before the Executive Board at our January 23, 2020 Board meeting

To that end I have now completed all four of the 4-hour online classes delivered by our webpage software vender, EasyNetSites (ENS) plus a fifth session for an expanded presentation on the Library/Archives webpage option. It was time well spent. I cannot believe just how powerful our new software program can be if we use it as it was designed to be used!

I have included articles on the Surname Research option and the Library/Archives option elsewhere in this newsletter. Please take the time to read the information and then visit the website to see what I'm talking about. And the best news is that it will cost little or nothing to get our information onto the webpage.

In closing, our December volunteer appreciation and holiday potluck included the presentation of the Edward E. Parker Award to Alice and Harry. Unfortunately, Maxine Rose was feeling under the weather and was not there to accept the Certificate of Appreciation that the Board approved at its October Meeting. Maxine has been the ICGS liaison with the Sam Corey Center since meetings were moved to that location. The Board recognizes and appreciates her work. So do I!! Thanks, Maxine.

Library News from CADL-Leslie

BY Jeff Antaya, Head Librarian

As another decade ends, genealogical research is as popular as ever. And patrons are still coming into the library to ask, “how do I get started?” or “where can I go next?”

Ingham county is fortunate to have outstanding institutions where genealogist can go and ask these questions. Along with our strong genealogical societies, it’s libraries and archives like the ICGS library, the Family History Center, Library of Michigan, and the Archives of Michigan that provide a solid support network for genealogists.

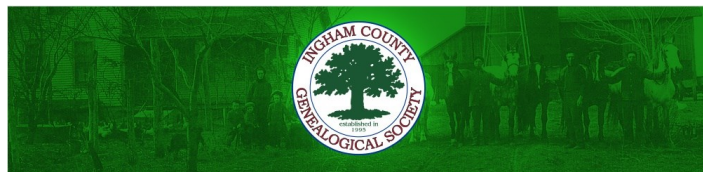

As a public library system in Ingham County, CADL does our part to make sure local genealogist have all the resources they need to find their next family story. We have a wonderful local history department at our Downtown Lansing Branch and our monthly Family History Connections group at the Leslie Branch on the 3rd Saturdays of each month from 6-7 p.m. where genealogist can learn about a new topic every month.

The big event every year is our annual Family History Open House. This year, we’re going back to the past and will be hosting the Family History Open House at our Downtown Lansing Branch on Saturday, March 14.

It will be a day full of great and informative speakers on topics from DNA to Military Records. It will also be a great time to network with other genealogist and have some fun. Keep an eye out for more information to come.

Webpage Surname Research Option

Have you visited the ICGS webpage (icgsweb.org/) recently? If not, you might be surprised with all the information that has been added and will continue to be added over the next several months.

One of the features of this new software is the Surname Research option (<https://icgsweb.org/surname.php>). Any member of ICGS can add the surname(s) he/she is researching and share those names with other ICGS members and the public.

To add your surnames (Must be a member.):

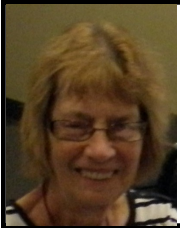

1. Log in to the Members’ area.
2. Then click on profile.
3. Scroll down to the second area in the screen and click on “Surnames”.
4. Click on the “+” icon and add your surname along with the additional information.
5. Repeat the process for additional surnames. Save your additions to the list.

Anyone visiting the Surname Research page can sort by surname using the small box at the top of the page. All your personal information (email) is private and not available for others to view.

The sorting will be done by the “Surname” field. Click on the eye icon in the left hand column to see what additional information was submitted or click on the envelope icon to send email to the submitter.

Additional information on “how to” is available on the “Submitting Your Surname” page.

TAMMY PARSONS

Tammy actually began researching her family tree as a school project in Junior High or High School and has continued “off and on” for 45 years. She learned about ICGS through a newspaper ad. She and her mother attended that meeting and became members, not realizing how new the Society was. She joined in January 1996 (member #37) 6 months after the Society was formed.

Since that fateful first meeting she has been an active and involved member. In addition to being a member of the first fundraising committee she was one of the Michigan Genealogical Council (MGC) delegates for ICGS for over 15 years and was MGC newsletter editor for many years. She was a member of the committee for the 10th anniversary celebration dinner, including creating the slide show. She also worked to create the officer binders.

Over the years she has worked at numerous booths during Down Home Days and Spring Fling. Additionally, she has worked on the seminar committee, not only hosting a local conference but ICGS was part of hosting a state wide conference in collaboration with MGC and Mid-Michigan Genealogical Society. Most recently she has chaired the ICGS Bylaws Committee and has been elected as Treasurer.

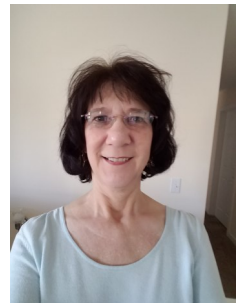

Helpful tricks she has picked up along the way include looking at all relatives. Sidelines can lead to some good clues for those lost relatives. Don't assume that your family is idyllic; there will be skeletons in your closet. Also, keep good research notes, including your sources.

In addition to her interest in genealogy, and working full time as a registered nurse, she coaches Special Olympics Polyhockey, cross country skiing, basketball and gymnastics, and scrapbooks the thousands of photos that she takes. She is also active in her nurses' union, both at the local and state level.

ROSE ADAMS

Rose started in genealogy about 20 years ago, in the early 90s. After her father died and her mother got cancer, she felt that she should start documenting her family history. A woman she worked with at the time got her started and was a big help, giving her tips and ideas – and taking her to MMGS meetings. She also completed “American Genealogy: A Basic Course” through the National Genealogical Society. The first software she used was Bill Dollarhide's EFT program.

After a few years of research she went on to other interests, and genealogy got pushed to the wayside. Her daughter was in Girl Scouts and 4-H so she was busy with those activities, among other things. She also picked up a new favorite hobby...quilting.

Rose knew about ICGS back when it was first formed and went to a few meetings, even though she doesn't have any research to do in Ingham County. Her Adams, Sterling, and Marcy ancestors settled in Ionia County in the 1850-60s and she is a member of the “First Families of Ionia County” group. She retired from MSU in June of 2017 and plans to pick up where she left off with her genealogical research. She has already realized that a lot has changed in the genealogical world.

Book Review

BY

Dallas King

I thought it would be appropriate to read this mystery in December. The Silent Christmas, a Jayne Sinclair Genealogical Mystery by M.J. Lee is part of a mystery series by an author well versed in genealogy.

Jayne Sinclair, a former detective, became a professional genealogist when she retired from the police force. After a presentation at a library the week before Christmas, Jayne was approached by a father and his son. They asked if she would investigate some objects inherited from Mr. Wright's father.

Jayne's father was having health issues, and while sitting by his bedside, she was able to research the mystery. She was able to inform the family that Mr. Wright had been actively involved in a football game during a truce on Christmas Eve on the Belgian front. The Wrights owned the original football from that game.

Even though this is a novel, the author provided websites and research strategies throughout the book. One of the suggestions was to join "Lost Cousins". Check it out! I joined and find it fascinating!

Edward E Parker Award Winners

Harry Warner and I shared the honor of being dual recipients of the Edward E Parker Award. This award is given, in memory of our founder, to members who have contributed to and demonstrated commitment to ICGS. I am honored to have been chosen and Thank you all.

DNA Interest Group Meeting

The Capitol Area DNA Interest Group will hold its January quarterly meeting on Saturday, January 25, 2020, 10am—12 noon at the CADL Downtown Lansing Library, 401 S. Capitol Ave. Galleries B&C. Parking is free on the weekend.

Anyone interested in DNA is welcome regardless of level of experience.

Volunteer Recognition

BY Audrey Z. Martini

I would like to take this opportunity to recognize the efforts of so many ICGS volunteers who have made, and continue to make, ICGS the great society that it is. Some of you have already seen this on Facebook. For those who did not, I offer the following:

Thank-you to our Librarian, Charles Hagler and the volunteers who show up for 3-4 hours every Wednesday afternoon at the ICGS Resource Room on the 2nd floor of the CADL-Mason Library to index and catalog newspaper articles, obituaries, and donated genealogical documents, as well as to assist others seeking assistance with Ingham County genealogy related research questions. In addition to Charles, those volunteers include Diane Bishop, Isabelle Wells, and Connie and James Stewart.

Thank-you to our current webmaster, Sandra Ennes, for the many hours she has spent learning, creating and maintaining the new ICGS web page.

Society Officers and Committee members are the backbone of any volunteer organization. That is especially true for ICGS. We have been blessed with the husband and wife team of Dan (Treasurer) and Lorie (Recording Secretary)

Neuman. Thank-you both for all the time you've given to the Ingham County Genealogical Society!

A very important ICGS Committee is the "Inroad to Ingham" newsletter committee. Martha "Marty" Marshall is our editor, but could not produce the great newsletter we have without help from contributors, layout and proofreaders. Thank-you to the following volunteers who have regularly made our Newsletter possible: Jeff Antaya - CADL column, Dallas King - Book Review and proofreader, Alice Stendel-Raatz - Historian's Report, Sheila Truman and Cathy Box-Carr - Proofreaders, and all the many others who have contributed stories throughout the year.

The Ingham County Genealogical Society recognizes and thanks those members who volunteered to donate/share their time and expertise by presenting information on various research topics of interest to the membership. John

DuLong shared his research findings on Heraldry; Lee

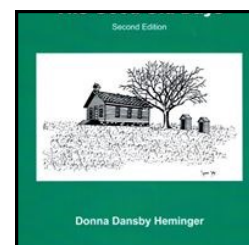

Laylin shared information on the Mayflower and Mayflower descendants; and Jane Wallin shared her presentation on the Life of

John D. Voelker.

Thank-you to Tammy Parsons, Alice Raatz, Joann DePeel, Beth Hall and Jane Wallin, members of the Bylaws and Policies Committee for the time spent updating both of these very important documents.

Donna Dansby Heminger's The Good Old Days would not have gotten published without the countless volunteer hours spent by Grove Sandrock and Diane Bishop.

ICGS is a 100% volunteer organization. President Audrey Martini, Vice President Gary Wilkes, Membership Secretary Beverley Bockes, Treasurer Dan Neuman, Secretary Lori Neuman, Librarian Charles Hagler, Directors Jane Wallin and Jeff

Montgomery, and immediate past president Diane Bishop serve without pay, many times donating resources as well as their time. Thank-you for your time!

Fundraising takes a community. The majority of ICGS' income is from membership dues. However, in November 2018 Lorie Neuman with help from Alice Raatz, Joann DePeel, Beverley Bockes, Dan Neuman, and Sandra Ennes in partnership with the Mason A & W raised dollars for the digitization of the Stockbridge Brief Sun newspaper. Of course this was made possible because so many of our members and their family and friends enjoyed spaghetti dinner at A&W on the designated day. Thank-you to all who participated in so many ways.

Thank-you to Jane Wallin for all the time and effort she put into developing a slate of officers for November's election of officers. The first election under our new Bylaws went smoothly because of her.

Some Volunteer efforts are behind the scenes. Sam Pardee has been the ICGS representative to the MI Genealogical Council (MGC) just short of 20 years. He has served in numerous capacities during that time including Recording Secretary for 11 years. He is currently serving as MGC's Mailman – all the while representing his home Society. He is also our "Resident Agent" with the State of Michigan.

Thank-you Sam!

Another ICGS fund raiser is the in-house raffle that takes place at our monthly meetings. Thank- you Barbara Bridges for selling the tickets and awarding the money, but we also need to thank all the members who purchase the tickets and contribute additional funds to our general fund coffers.

Some volunteer efforts do not fall easily under a particular category like Jim Beckwith's leading our Pledge of Allegiance at monthly meetings, or Jessica Parson's helping with clean up at the end of every meeting, or Jeff Antaya's inviting an ICGS display at CADL-Leslie. To all those to volunteer in large or small ways THANK-YOU!

Social media is a key part of any effort to market our Society. Five people have been instrumental in keeping our presence on Facebook. Jeff Antaya works with our Facebook Group. Connie Stewart is great at responding to inquiries from our Facebook Group members. Sandra Ennes ties it all together with ICGS' branding strategy. Sandra and Isabelle Wells contribute posts to the Facebook page on a regular basis.

A thank-you to ALL our members who follow the page and add information, likes, etc. to keep both our Facebook and Web pages in the forefront of visitors and potential new members.

Between his memory and his filing system, Bill Carr has been the link between what has come before and the present. Whether it is information on where we purchased plaques 5 years ago, or what the discussions were regarding donating copies of the last group Ingham County News microfilm, his low key counsel has been invaluable over the past 18 months.

God bless you all!!

Library/Archives Database

The EasyNetSites' (ENS) Library/Archives module for websites has the ability to search for a surname anywhere in the database. If we keyed into the record all the surnames of a particular item in the catalog, ENS' search engine would find the record.

The Library/Archive Detail image on this page shows some of the information that can be included in the database. For this example, I used a Pedigree Chart that I added to the card catalog database. Names from pedigree charts are currently filed in a 3x5 card file that a volunteer fills out and files and then searches manually. A 5-generation pedigree chart could have as many as 32 names/32 3x5 cards to be handwritten out.

With this database volunteers would enter information once and list the other surnames on the chart in the Surname field. (The database has the capacity to include the pedigree chart document as well.) The field is large enough that a book with 800 surnames would have space to list all 800.

A researcher can search for a surname by subject, location, title, author, description, collection, media type, or all of the above.

So what is the catch? Getting the data from the various Word, Access, and Excel formats into the database. Batch uploads are an option, but because the database is so complex, a minimum of four spreadsheets need to be synched. And the data needs to be in the correct format for the database.

If ENS formats the data it is $45/hour. ENS does have to do the batch upload. If formatted correctly the average upload costs $22.50/hour.

Two resources are needed to make this happen. The first is a list of the current ICGS Library's holdings with as much information as we have relative to the search fields. Second, we need volunteers to help enter and/or format the data in preparation of a batch upload or in some cases, to just enter data into the database.

Odds and Ends of Information

The Michiganology.org database continues to be updated. The 1942 and 1943 Michigan death certificates are available. The best results come with using the advanced search function. Be sure to give a date range rather than an exact date. For example, if you are looking for a 12/15/1942 death certificate, use the range of 12/14/1942 to 12/16/1942.

A note from the Michigan Genealogical Council:

Are you looking for ways you or your society can give back to the genealogy community? Indexers are still needed for the Michigan Naturalization Indexing Project at Family Search. Use these cold winter days to index a batch or 100!

Also, the archives and Family Search are in the process of scanning Michigan Probate Records. If interested in helping with this project, please contact archives@michigan.gov The work that you would be doing would be getting the records ready for scanning and returning them to their packets after the scanning is done. Family Search personnel does the scanning.

Are you a Facebook user? If you need help and use Facebook, check out the Random Acts of Genealogical Kindness—RAOGK USA Group. They are amazing in their accuracy and efficiency in helping figure out all sorts of small hurdles and large brick walls. Request to join the group by visiting <https://www.facebook.com/groups/raogkUSA>.

Newspaper Digitizing Correction. In my last President's message I incorrectly wrote that we had already paid Clarke Library $350. The correct deposit amount was $390.

The last Treasurer's report indicated a balance of $1,507.20 in our Savings Account that is earmarked for the digitization project.

Connie Stewart has taken the time to do an actual count of frames that need to be digitized to fine tune the actual dollars needed to completely digitize the Stockbridge Brief Sun. We are still going to need to do some fundraising to complete that set of newspapers.
